Jay will share stories and show tools and weapons of the time.

Deb will tell what it was like to cook and "keep house" in those days.

Other exhibits include the Lincoln-Douglas room, genealogy resources, local family and event histories and period furnishings.

The House is located just south of the Jonesboro Square at 102 S. Main St.

The PAST organization of Union County owns and operates Heritage House.

No admission is charged, but donations are appreciated and contribute to the upkeep of Heritage House.

Legislators review stopgap budget

A stopgap Illinois budget was approved June 30. The Illinois News Network reported that the budget funds K-12 education for the entire year and road construction projects, some human services and government operations through the November election.

Southern Illinois state legislators shared their thoughts on the new budget, which took effect July 1.

State Sen. Dave Luechtefeld, R-Okawville, said in a news release that the "stopgap budget approved June 30 puts government on the right path even if it is not a full fiscal year budget for the State of Illinois."

"Given the level of partisanship that controls the process, this plan is a positive step forward. It's not ideal. It's not what I worked for and hoped for, and I'm disappointed we essentially went a year without a state budget in place," Luechtefeld said.

"But it is a good start, it breaks the impasse and it accomplishes a number of funding goals without a tax increase."

Luechtefeld said the budget makes education funding a top priority. Highlights include;

Elementary and secondary schools are fully funded for Fiscal Year 2017 and will open on time this fall.

Education is funded at 100 percent of the Foundation Level for the first time in seven years.

All districts are "held harmless," which means no district will lose funding compared to last year. The vast majority of schools will receive more money than last year.

A new statewide $250 million equity grant for the poorest school districts.

$75 million for early childhood education.

$1 billion additional funding for colleges and universities on top of $600 million already approved in Fiscal Year 2016, which ensures universities open on time and complete a full fall semester.

$151 million for MAP grants for the 2016 spring semester 2016. This goes to public and private colleges, for all students who were awarded MAP grants for the spring semester.

$114 million for community colleges.

The 58th District senator said the budget deal also includes full year funding for important public infrastructure projects.

"Our transportation system is a critical component of economic growth," said Luechtefeld.

"We need to ensure our transportation system is the best it can be. The agreement provides a full year of funding for this priority."

The transportation portion of the budget includes;

$2.5 billion to ensure active transportation projects continue uninterrupted and protect an estimated 25,000 construction and related jobs. The funding also allows the state to restart stalled construction projects throughout the state.

$213 million for transit and rail projects

$127 million for airport improvements, and

$111.7 million for miscellaneous capital needs.

"Another basic and important function of government is the care and support we provide for our most vulnerable citizens," said Luechtefeld.

"The budget also includes $701 million for human services and it funds critical government services to help cover services not already being paid under consent decrees or court orders. It also provides funding for state prisons, mental health centers and veterans' homes."

The senator said the budget deal includes money for the Illinois State Police to pay for fuel and vehicle maintenance to ensure public safety. It also contains funding to keep state parks open. It specifically prohibits pay raises for legislators and other state officials.

"Unfortunately, the past year was marked by resentment and spite, with little care and concern for the people of Illinois," said Luechtefeld.

"I place most of the blame with the Speaker who just couldn't face the fact that Illinois has a Republican governor."

"However, even with a super majority in the House and the Senate, the majority party failed on its own to pass a balanced budget as required by our Constitution."

"And so, after Democrat leaders informed us that they did not want to do a balanced budget along with common-sense reforms until after the November election, we had to do something to ensure critical government services are funded and schools open on time. This isn't ideal, but it is necessary."

State Sen. Gary Forby, D-Benton, said in a news release that he joined colleagues from the House and Senate Thursday, June 30, "to pass a bipartisan, full K-12 budget that will ensure schools open on time this fall and that local schools have the resources they need to operate through the upcoming school year."

Forby expressed his relief that the governor temporarily set aside his agenda so that a budget agreement could be reached.

"Southern Illinois schools will not only open on time this fall, but we will finally see our fair share," Forby said.

"It was a fight, but once the governor agreed to drop his demands, we were able to move forward on making sure our school children have the resources they need to succeed."

The budget also included funding for the Illinois Department of Transportation to ensure capital projects continue across the region.

"This was also about thousands of construction workers keeping their jobs and making sure infrastructure projects, which are vital to our local economy, continue," Forby added.

The measure contains funding to keep the Franklin County Juvenile Detention Center open, money promised to Alexander County to clean up flood damage and the following Capital Development Board projects:

Upgrades to the Vienna Correctional Center in Johnson County.

Replacement of the roofing systems for the Shawnee Correctional Center.

Upgrades for the primary and emergency electric generators for the Illinois Youth Center in Harrisburg.

"This is great for my district," said Forby "These projects are long overdue, and I want to bring these projects home to my district. More construction projects mean more jobs, and that's what we need in Southern Illinois."

State Rep. Brandon Phelps, D-Harrisburg, released the following statement June 30 after he voted to pass a temporary budget aimed at funding critical services, schools and state facilities:

"The fact that many of Southern Illinois' most vulnerable residents have suffered because of the state's inability to enact a state budget is embarrassing. Senior citizens, people with disabilities, and homeless veterans have all been hurt due to this impasse."

"The passage of this emergency stopgap budget marks a good example that when people put aside their political differences and focus on serving the people, progress can be made. What is important is that we do not lose sight of this fact and continue to craft a full-year balanced state budget."

"The proposal that I supported will avoid multiple catastrophes, namely making sure that Southern Illinois schools open on time, while also bringing more desperately needed resources into our region's classrooms."

"Despite the governor's efforts to cut education funding during negotiations, I have stood firm for additional school resources for Southern Illinois because our students deserve it."

"Funding for vital programs like those for children with disabilities, rape crisis centers, and services for the elderly are also included in this plan. Southern Illinois' taxpayers have suffered more than other residents throughout the state."

"Municipalities throughout our region are owed for subsidizing utility costs for state facilities to keep them operational. This plan will help to settle those debts."

"Also, residents who have been impacted by flooding in Alexander County will also see relief."

"Despite recent claims that I support bailing out Chicago's public schools, I stood in strong opposition and voted against two proposals today that would send our hard-earned tax dollars up to Chicago."

"The students of Southern Illinois are just as important as the students of Chicago and I believe we need to provide property tax relief for our residents."

"I have spent my career fighting for the people of Southern Illinois, from the kindergarten students to the elderly. I stand ready and willing to roll up my sleeves and complete the work we were sent here to do."

State Rep. Terri Bryant, R-Murphysboro, said in a June 30 news release that she "joined a bipartisan coalition of legislators in the Illinois House today in supporting a stopgap funding measure designed to make sure schools open on time, higher education receives critical funding, human services providers are kept afloat, and road projects continue."

"Today's action on SB 2047 provides needed funding for many items that State government is supposed to have been taking care of for many months."

"There are parts of this plan that I am ecstatic about, but I want to be realistic and note that there are many, many folks left out of this budget because it is after all just a temporary spending plan."

Bryant said that among the highlights of SB 2047 is a guarantee for funding for Pre-K through 12 schools to ensure that they can open on time and that they can operate for the entire school year.

"A major priority of mine was to get more money for the schools in my district," Bryant said.

"I am pleased to report that every school in my district will get more money this year than they did last year. That's a win for Southern Illinois. The parents, teachers, and school administrators should be applauded for never giving up the fight for a budget to ensure schools would open on time and stay open all year."

The legislation provides funding for community colleges, Southern Illinois University and for MAP grant recipients.

Bryant said she is "also thankful to all of her constituents that have written, called, emailed and visited her office to urge passage of a higher education budget."

"What we were able to achieve is only one part of the funding that higher education needs," Bryant said. "That being said, we're better off passing a six-month stopgap bill to allow SIU, John A. Logan College, Shawnee College and Rend Lake College to continue their operations and to allow low income students the opportunity to obtain a world class education."

Human services providers will also receive $700 million in much needed funding to continue current services and to catch up on past due bills. 25,000 jobs will be saved as of July 1 as road projects will continue uninterrupted in the State due to today's legislative action.

"Today's a good day, but we aren't done," Bryant said. "There's much more to do."

Following are items covered by the budget passage:

K-12 Education: Increases general state aid by $361 million. Equity grant to assist high poverty schools. $75 million increase to early childhood education. Full year of funding for fiscal year 2017.

Higher Education: $1 billion in funding for universities, community colleges, MAP Grants, adult education, career and technical education, Illinois Math and Science Academy operations. Covers Fiscal Year 2016 and first half of Fiscal Year 2017.

Covers 65 percent of full funding for the 18-month period. Includes programs that were suspended, such as autism programs, Teen Reach and other youth programs.

Anna author's newest book coming in October

By Lindsey Rae Vaughn

Pamela Hearon of Anna has a new book coming out titled "Gaining Visibility" in October.

This book is a different genre from her past novels. Instead of romance, her new book is considered women's fiction and is published through Kensington Publishing Corporation.

"It's a different and exciting move," Hearon said, though the story still has strong romantic elements.

"Gaining Visibility" is about 48-year-old Julia, who battled breast cancer and won, but repulsed by her ravaged body, her husband leaves her for a younger woman.

With her daughter moving to Alaska for a new job and her beloved mother-in-law being moved into a nursing home, Julia decides to celebrate her victory by hiking Italy's Cinque Terre.

While hiking, she's injured by a rock — one that happens to belong to a 30-something stone mason named Vitale.

Reluctantly, she accepts his insistent offer of lodging while she recovers and through him, she starts to learn how to accept herself.

"This one is the book of my heart," Hearon said. She is a breast cancer survivor.

"The subject is not covered a lot in fiction. I wanted to tell a story that identified with all ages," she said.

Hearon continues to write and already has a portion of her next adventure on paper, which is also women's fiction.

At the end of "Gaining Visibility," there will be questions for discussions for book clubs to use.

To book Hearon for an event or book club meeting, email lmartinez@kensingtonbooks.com.

To sign up for her newsletters, visit www.pamela-hearon.com.

"Gaining Visibility," will be released during Breast Cancer Awareness Month and will be available in print, digital copy or in an audio book at Barnes and Noble, Amazon and more.

Lightning safety precautions urged

"When thunder roars, go indoors" is more than a catchy phrase about lightning safety.

It's a reminder that you're at risk of being struck by lightning if you're outdoors and can hear thunder.

That's the message the Illinois Emergency Management Agency, IEMA, the National Weather Service, NWS, and local emergency management agencies work to promote.

"We all enjoy being outdoors on beautiful summer days," IEMA director James K. Joseph said in a news release.

"But don't push your luck when thunderstorms are in the area. There's absolutely no picnic, golf game or other outdoor activity that's worth risking your life."

Joseph added that it's important to remain inside a substantial building or hard-topped vehicle for 30 minutes after the last sound of thunder.

According to the NWS, there were no lightning-related fatalities in Illinois in 2015.

Nationwide, 27 people were killed by lightning. The fatalities occurred while people were fishing, working, walking, camping, riding motorcycles, under or near trees, or participating in other outdoor activities.

"To date, all of the lightning fatalities in the U.S. have occurred outdoors," said Heather Stanley, meteorologist with the NWS office in Lincoln.

"Checking the weather forecast should be a step in planning any outdoor activity. But most importantly, don't hesitate to act if you hear thunder. No place is safe outside in a thunderstorm."

While fewer than 10 percent of people who are struck by lightning are killed, many lightning strike survivors suffer various degrees of disability.

Only a few lightning victims actually suffer burns, and these are usually minor.

However, many lightning strike survivors are left with debilitating lifelong effects, including memory loss, personality changes, fatigue, irreparable nerve damage, chronic pain and/or headaches, difficulty sleeping and dizziness.

Consumers to share $19 million payment in e book settlement

The Illinois attorney general's office recently announced that consumers in the state would begin receiving their portions of a $19 million payment by Apple Inc. for an alleged e books price-fixing conspiracy.

This is the second payment Illinois consumers will receive as part of the settlement reached by Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan and other states.

Illinois consumers received an initial payment of more than $6.4 million in March 2014 from a settlement with book publishers.

Illinois joined 32 other states and territories in suing Apple and five of the six largest book publishers in the country in 2012.

Apple agreed to pay $400 million in damages to e-book consumers nationwide as a result, which will be combined with the $21 million remaining from previous settlements with book publishers for a total distribution of $421 million.

The second payment will be sent to 23 million accounts nationwide, which includes accounts from all the major e book retailers, including Amazon, Barnes & Noble, Kobo, Apple and Google.

"As a result of the conduct of Apple and book publishers, Illinois consumers spent more on e-books than they should have," Madigan said in a news release.

"This second settlement will help further compensate Illinois consumers and continue to send a clear signal that we will enforce antitrust laws to ensure fair competition."

The amount an individual consumer will receive from the second payment depends on the number and types of e-books they purchased from April 1, 2010, to May 21, 2012.

E-book consumers can expect $6.93 for each New York Times bestseller and $1.57 for every other book purchased during that period.

Most consumers will receive a credit to their e-book accounts without filing a claim or providing proof of purchase.

A small percentage of eligible consumers will receive a mailed check. This group includes consumers who purchased e-books from Sony, Google or a small retailer or who elected to receive a check.

Due to the large number of consumers affected, some consumers were not expected to see credits in their accounts until Friday, June 24.

All credits and checks are valid for one year and will expire on June 24, 2017. Account credits from a retailer can be used to purchase anything the retailer sells.

Eligible consumers are advised to review their email for communications from their e-book retailer or from the settlement administrator regarding account credits or checks.

For more information on the settlements, visit www.Ebooklawsuits.com.

One of the most frequent rebukes the church hears from people is, "Why, you're judging!" If there is one passage in the Bible everyone knows about, it must be this one: "Judge not, that you be not judged" (Mt. 7:1). People have no clue as to what the verse means, but they know it's in the Bible!

In the Sermon on the Mount, Christ said: "Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again" (Mt. 7:1-2).

Appropriate judging must be done sincerely and for the welfare of the individual. The one who pronounces judgment upon another, when he is personally guilty of equal or greater transgressions, is not genuine in his criticism. Many of the Jews were like this. While they condemned the wickedness of the pagans, they practiced some of the same sins (Rom. 2:1-3).

Does this imply that one must be "sinless" before he can pass a "judgment" regarding another's conduct? No. Paul was not sinless (1 Tim. 1:15; Phil. 3:12ff), yet he judged the fornicator who was shaming the Corinthian church (1 Cor. 5:3). The person who presumes to judge, however, must be a truly spiritual person (1 Jn. 1:7), striving to do God's will, with the good of others honestly at heart (Gal. 6:1).

Another time, the Lord warned the Jews: "Judge not according to appearance" (Jn. 7:24). Superficial judging is condemned. To judge someone strictly on the basis of race, background, unsubstantiated rumor, appearance, financial standing, etc., is wrong (Lk. 10:25ff; 15:1ff; Gal. 2:11ff; Jas. 2:1ff).

The rest of the verse says, "...but judge righteous judgment." The context has to do with an earlier miracle wherein Jesus had healed a lame man on the Sabbath day, and told him to take up his bed and walk (Jn. 5:8). Because of this alleged violation of the Sabbath, and because the Lord claimed divine authority in the miraculous healing, the Jews sought to kill him (v. 18). While it might have appeared that Christ had violated the Sabbath on that occasion, He really hadn't. Jesus was "Lord of the Sabbath" (Mt. 12:8), and he had the right to heal this man on that occasion.

Therefore, Christ cautions, "...but judge the righteous judgment." The verb, krinete, is present tense (sustained activity), imperative mood (command), thus, the sense is: "practice judging of the righteous sort."

Dear Reader, we will all stand before God in final judgment (Heb. 9:27). Are you ready for that? Let us at the Anna church of Christ help you prepare. You'll be glad you did come Judgment Day. Have a great day and mark your calendar for our Vacation Bible School - July 17th - 21st. We'll have classes for all ages, including adults, and we hope to see you!

Summer of 1941: A look back at life in Union County

Seventy-five years ago this summer, page one of the June 26, 1941, edition of The Gazette-Democrat featured a large photograph of "Selectees Who Left for the Induction Station, June 19th."

At the time, the United States was not directly involved in a war which was raging around the world.

Just a few months later, on December 7, 1941, the Japanese Empire attacked Pearl Harbor in Hawaii and the United States was plunged into World War II.

This week, Union County residents joined in the celebration of Independence Day on July 4.

The Gazette-Democrat takes a look back at life in Union County during the summer of 1941.

The news and advertisements which are featured originally appeared in the June 26, 1941, edition of The Gazette-Democrat.

The "selectees" who left for induction on June 19 included, as identified in the photograph which appeared in the newspaper:

Paul Sronce, Tim Evans Stokes, George E. Gray, Myron J. Reese, Thomas E. Crissip, Norris A. Smith.

William Kimmel, Malcom M. Menees, Roy Bittle, Louie Robert Hubbs, Robert Bauman, William Sargent.

Harlan Eugene Casper, James Miller, Henry Rendleman Jr., Herman Belcher, Leo Peter Halter, Homer Miller, Donald Aldridge, Albert Cecil Sanders.

The men were identified row by row as they appeared in the photograph. Nearly a dozen of the men were wearing ties.

The photograph, as might be expected in a newspaper which is 75 years old, is fading and can't really be reproduced.

The quality of the image also is a bit complicated because the June 26, 1941, edition of The Gazette-Democrat was printed in red ink to commemorate the Independence Day holiday.

Several stories related to the war also appeared on page one of that issue of the paper.

One of the stories appeared to have been related to the photograph of the men who left for the induction station on June 19.

The story shared that "Russell Corlis was in charge of the program given before the Selective Service men left Anna for camp last Thursday evening.

"Lynn Sifford gave a talk on camp life and emphasized the fact that there are a lot of misrepresentations concerning the conduct of men in camp.

He said that there were those who did not conduct themselves properly but brought out the point that there were just as many out of army life who did likewise and it was up to the individual what he wanted to do with himself.

The same thing exists in Anna and in all other towns as exist around camps, Sifford said, and it is no worse or no better."

The article concluded by noting that "Chas. Pregaldin gave out bulletins from the Legion which gives the young men advice."

Another page one story in the June 26 paper was about the organization by the Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross of a Women's Committee of War-Relief Production.

Mrs. Ford L. Rendleman of Anna served as the chairwoman of the county committee.

Through the efforts of the committee, such items as clothing for girls, women, boys and men were shipped.

"Official Red Cross information indicates war relief is being distributed among Great Britain, occupied France, China and Spain. Five to eight boats leave weekly with Red Cross supplies for England," the story reported.

Readers learned that the British War Relief Committee of the Anna Woman's Club had placed several glass liberty bell banks in the business houses of Anna for the purpose of getting funds for the committee to use in the purchase of first aid kits for Britain.

Not all of the news on page one of the paper was related to the war. A look at some of the other news from the week of June 26, 1941, follows:

Last Friday was the most active day at the Anna Municipal Market since its opening seven years ago for strong, competitive bidding. Cars and trucks were hardly stopped before buyers were after the produce. On that day cucumbers topped $3.10 a bushel and there wasn't enough to supply the demand.

Sunday there was a greater quantity of produce and the most vehicles so far this season. By one o'clock every inch of available parking space was taken. Monday was also a big day with prices not quite so strong. This followed a big crop on the Chicago market Monday morning.

Home grown tomatoes are on the market for the first time today. They were brought in by Andrew Sitter of Cobden and sold for $2.00 per 10 pound basket. He had six baskets.

Charles Bostian has been selling an early variety of peach. They have been bringing $2.00 a basket.

Anna will have street signs – it was officially passed on at the regular meeting of the city council last night and Mayor R.L. Shannon made the announcement today. The signs decided on are attractive and sturdy. They are entirely heavy steel with black lettering on a white background.

Two local boys, two from Anna and one from Jonesboro, will attend Boys' State which will be held at the state capitol in Springfield from Saturday, June 28 until next Saturday.

They are being sponsored by the American Legion, Jonesboro Men's Club and other interested citizens.

The boys are Robert Charles Gear, Jonesboro, David Roberts, Anna and Bill Bierbaum, Anna.

Barbara Kent will leave Friday for Jacksonville to attend Girls' State, a citizenship school sponsored by the American Legion Department of Illinois, and which will be held on the MacMurray College campus from June 28 to July 5th.

As Secretary of State of this mythical 49th State, she will serve in that capacity until her successor is elected and inaugurated and will serve also as a junior counsellor.

Yesterday was the hottest yet this summer with the mercury reaching a maximum of 94 degrees.

Summer of 1941

At that time, The Gazette-Democrat featured a column called The Housewife's Corner, which featured "Tasty New Recipes" and "Hints for the Home Maker."

The column was edited by Mrs. Eunice Larkin of Litchfield.

Onions were the featured topic in that week's column.

"The onion may be a social curse to your next-door neighbor, but to the cook it is a truly great blessing," the column shared.

"There are countless ways to use this humble, pungent, to some fragrant, vegetable," readers were advised.

The column featured nine recipes, including this one for

Onion Shortcake
2 cups flour, sifted.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons shortening.
3-4 cup(s) milk, about.
4 tablespoons butter.
2 cups sliced large mild onions.
1 egg, slightly beaten.
1/2 cup sour cream.
1/2 teaspoon pepper.
Mix and sift first three ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until consistency of coarse cornmeal.

Stir in milk to make a smooth dough. Turn out on slightly floured board, knead 1/2 minute and put into oiled 9-inch cake pan.

Melt butter in frying pan, add onions and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Spread onions on biscuit dough.

Combine slightly beaten egg with sour cream and seasonings; pour over onions. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 25 minutes.

The Lilac Club will meet Friday, July 4th, at 2:30 p.m. at Stinson Memorial Library.

From the Jonesboro news: A truck load of hay was upset on the hard road, while rounding the curve near the city hall, Monday, disturbing traffic for about an hour.

From the Cobden news: An ice cream social sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary will be held Saturday night, June 28 at the People's Market.

From the Wireless Station news: The ice cream social at Camp Ground was rained out Saturday night and will be held Saturday night, June 28. Invitations to all.

From the Mountain Glen news: Mrs. Frances Treece of Cobden is helping Geo. Basler with his raspberry crop.

From the Alto Pass news: The Baptist church is being equipped with new seats this week.

From the Western Saratoga news: A much needed rain fell in this community Saturday night. The rain was accompanied by a severe wind which did some damage to trees and growing crops.

The Pentecostal meeting which is being held every Sunday in Saratoga was not largely attended Sunday due to threatening weather. They are expecting a larger crowd next Sunday.

From the New Hope news: There was quite an electrical and wind storm with a fine rain here Saturday evening.

Several attended the charivari given for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pulliam Wednesday night.

The June 26 edition of the paper included a

Anna Auto Supply was offering radio service, with "labor and parts guaranteed." Information was available by calling 309.

South Radio Service, located at 206 S. Main St., phone 122, also advertised "repairs on all makes," with "sets called for and delivered."

An 80-acre farm was listed for sale – for $700.

Union County Implement Company was offering "used or reconditioned trucks," including a 1938 Chevrolet half-ton pickup and a 1938 half-ton Plymouth pickup.

An Anna resident was looking for a "good work horse. Must be good horse and price must be right."

Six "fresh milch cows" were being sold by a Mt. Pleasant resident.

Finally, a note from the "Personals" news items: Lieutenant Ray Oliver Penrod of Boston, Massachusetts, arrived in Anna on a five-day furlough to visits his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Penrod Sr.

Lieutenant Penrod gave his life in service to the nation during World War II.

A memorial remembering Lieutenant Penrod can be seen at the Anna Cemetery.

85-year-old Northern Illinois man on 560-mile journey to help St. Jude Children's Hospital

By Amber Skelton
Dean Troutman, an 85-year-old man from Princeville in Northern Illinois, will be walking near the Anna-Jonesboro area with his bright green shirt and yellow buggy around July 15.

He is traveling on foot from his home to Memphis, Tenn.

The approximately 560-mile-long journey is an effort to raise funds for the families who are receiving treatment at St. Jude Children's Hospital. The hospital in Memphis, Tenn., is Troutman's final destination.

He has a fundraising goal of $100,000, which would provide meal cards for the families at St. Jude.

Last year, Troutman pushed his yellow buggy for 700 miles to raise funds and support for Troutman Park. The park was built in honor of Troutman's wife, Peggy, who died as a result of Parkinson's disease.

This year, he decided he wanted to walk again, and said – "Who better to raise money for than the kids?"

Family and friends check in with him and call ahead to find meals and lodging for him each day, but Troutman carries a tent with him just in case.

He walks anywhere from 10 to 25 miles a day, rain or shine. He hopes to complete the walk in about 60 days, making stops along the way at the towns that are significant to the story of how he and Peggy met and were married.

Troutman's schedule will bring him down Route 37 and through Buncombe towards the middle of July.

To learn how to donate to Troutman's St. Jude fund and keep up to date with each day of "Troutman's Trek" at <https://www.facebook.com/troutmanstrek/>.

Local five-year cancer survivor Celebrates Life at recent event in Zion

Linda Waller, a colon cancer survivor from Alto Pass, joined more than 140 five-year cancer survivors on Friday, June 10, for Celebrate Life.

The event is an annual day of empowerment and celebration conceived by Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion.

This was the 28th year that CTCA at Midwestern has held Celebrate Life, and a record number of patients and caregivers participated to mark the occasion.

Waller and the other celebrants, representing 32 states, were transported to the event on large Coach buses and escorted, with lights flashing, by members of the Zion Fire-Rescue Department.

Upon arrival, the celebrants stepped on to a red carpet, lined on both sides with hundreds of supporters comprised of family, friends, doctors, nurses and members of the community.

The survivors united as a group for inspirational opening remarks before participating in a commemorative tree planting ceremony.

Every year, a tree is planted in honor of each five-year cancer survivor, providing the nation with a forest of life-giving trees that represent cancer survivorship.

Each survivor was also honored with an engraved gold leaf, which is proudly displayed on one of four blossoming "Trees of Life" located within the hospital.

As celebrants and their families enjoyed the festivities, they shared stories of survivorship with one another and took time to visit patients within the hospital who are in the midst of their

PAWS unveils plans to develop new facility

The local Pets are Worth Saving Inc., PAWS, organization is moving forward with plans to develop a new facility.

PAWS has for many years operated a facility which is located at 139 E. Vienna St. in Anna.

Plans for the new facility were shared in a weekly article, PAWS...for Reflection, which appears in Monday's Pub. Monday's Pub. is published by The Gazette-Democrat.

PAWS noted in the article that it is moving forward with plans to develop "a new, up-to-date, facility."

To help support the project, PAWS has received "an extraordinarily generous gift from one of our long-time supporters."

"He has pledged a $50,000 dollar-for-dollar match that began May for donations to our building fund."

"We are so very, very grateful for this inspiring offer and are on our way to adding that $100,000 to our total."

The facility which PAWS currently operates has served thousands of animals which have been rescued and found new homes during the past 15 years.

PAWS has acquired a two-acre site for its new facility. The location of the site was not identified in the article.

The organization is hoping to begin work on the new facility "very soon."

PAWS reported that the new facility will allow the organization "to streamline all aspects of the sheltering process" for animals that it takes in.

From intake through the care and medical assistance needed to bring them back to health, all the way to the day they go to a new home, PAWS said the new facility will allow the organization "to more efficiently serve them."

There will be runs and outdoor play areas for dogs and puppies. There will be cat rooms where the cats and kittens ready for adoption will be able to play, climb on cat trees all day or nap.

The new facility will have "get acquainted" rooms for prospective adopters to meet their new family member. There will be a quarantine area for the many sick and debilitated babies we receive.

A multipurpose room which can also be used for activities and education for kids is planned.

Secure, outdoor areas will allow families to spend time meeting and playing with dogs to find the one that best suits their family.

PAWS said that it will be able to pursue grants and initiatives for spay/neuter programs in our communities.

The price tag for such a venture is high, but the benefit to our communities is priceless in its legacy of love and commitment and vision for the future.

More information about the work done by PAWS is available by calling 833-DOGS (3647), or by visiting pawspaws.org facebook.com/PAWSAnna.

GOD IS OMNIPRESENT

Outside on a summer evening, with the vast expanse of sky overhead and a warm breeze gently blowing, it can feel like God is all around us. Where does God live? He's not in a body like we are. He can be as many places as he needs to be; He is omnipresent, omnipotent, and omniscient. He lives especially in our hearts. Celebrate His presence in your life and heart at your house of worship this week.

‘Joseph, Dreamcoat’ musical performances planned at SIU

“Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat” brings its many colors to the McLeod Summer Playhouse at Southern Illinois University Carbondale July 8-17.

Based on the Biblical story of Joseph and his famous coat, this musical tells the story of a favored son who is sold into slavery by his jealous brothers, rises to become advisor to the pharaoh, and reunites with his family in forgiveness.

The score by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice features songs in styles from pop, calypso, French chanson, rock and roll to country-western.

The show started as a short musical piece in 1968 and, after much development, opened on Broadway in 1982.

The cast features the 22 members of the MSP 2016 Company and eight children from the community as the “choir,” student visitors to the museum.

“Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat” performs July 8-17, Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. in the McLeod Theater on the SIU campus.

Seats for the show are $10 for children, $14 for students and $30 for adults.

Tickets can be obtained during box office hours Monday through Friday in person at the McLeod Theater and SIU Arena, by phone at 618-453-6000 or online at playhouse.siu.edu.

‘The President’s Own’ U.S. Marine Band debuts work by SIU composer

“The President’s Own” United States Marine Band was scheduled to debut a composition from a Southern Illinois University Carbondale composer as part of its summer series on the U. S. Capitol’s West Terrace in Washington, D.C.

Performances were scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, June 29-30.

Eric Mandat, professor of clarinet and composition and an SIU Distinguished Scholar, was to have his composition “Parallel Histories: An Excursion” played for the first time anywhere in the world during the U.S. Marine Band concert.

The composition calls for two soloists, and Mandat knew which two he had in mind: Master Sgt. Jihoon Chang and Master Gunnery Sgt. Jay Niepotter. Chang hails from Granite City and Niepotter is originally from Centralia.

Both men attended SIU band camp in 1983, where they met and got to know Mandat, then a not-quite-new member of the School of Music faculty.

“I worked with them then, and we have remained close friends for these many years,” Mandat said.

Chang and Niepotter both went to different universities after band camp, but they rekindled their friendship after both auditioned for and were accepted by “The President’s Own” U. S. Marine Band.

Now they are both nearing retirement. Niepotter asked Mandat if he would write a piece for the Marine Band featuring two clarinets.

“Parallel Histories” is that work. Not only does it honor Mandat’s two band camp alumni friends, it also explores the parallel histories of the personal struggles of individual people that are part of our development as a nation.

According to the program notes, the “mixture of these experiences is one of life’s rich rewards, and this piece reflects on that gift.”

Mandat described the work as an optimistic proclamation of hope derived from working and sharing in community.

The U.S. Marine Band is the only musical unit with the title “The President’s Own” and to bear the mission to provide music for the president of the United States and the Commandant of the Marine Corps.

The Marine Band has performed for every presidential inauguration since Thomas Jefferson's in 1801.

The band also performs at state funerals, full honors funerals at Arlington National Cemetery and other events.

Opinion and Commentary

Summer evenings are anything but quiet

(Editor's note: the following article was written by University of Illinois Extension energy and environmental stewardship educator Jason Haupt. The article originally appeared on the Extension website.)

If you are like me, you enjoy sitting in your back yard on nice spring and summer evenings. But, even in the small town that I live in it is far from quiet. Sitting on my porch or patio, I can hear a number of noises and most of them are not man made.

In the spring and early summer, there are lots of noises to listen to, and it is pleasant to sit on a cool night and just listen to the music that is made by a number of animals that are around you.

Frogs and toads are active in the evening and can be heard from quite a distance. There are 21 species of frogs and toads found in Illinois and many of them are easily identified simply by their call. Here are a few that you can pay attention to and identify:

The chorus frog: Though there are a couple of species (western chorus and the upland chorus), they have similar calls. Take a plastic comb and run your finger down the teeth of the comb. This is the sound that chorus frogs make. They are commonly heard throughout Illinois.

Treefrogs: There are two species found in Illinois (Cope's grey treefrog and grey treefrog). These seem to be the most common frogs that I have heard this year. Their call sounds like a monotone trill, raspy and faster for the Cope's and a more musical trill for the grey treefrog. My neighbor describes their call as a calm quiet cicada.

American toad: The call of the American toad is a high to medium pitched trill that seems to last forever.

American bullfrog: If you hear what sounds like a cow with a chest cold, you might be hearing an American bullfrog. They have a low hum that starts higher and ends in a lower pitch.

Green frog: This is one of the most distinct sounding frogs. It sounds like a rubber band being plucked. The sound is similar to what a shoe box guitar makes.

As the summer progresses, most other sounds are drowned out by the call of what should be the Illinois insect, the cicada. We all recognize this sound and some years it is infuriating how loud it is. The constant harsh rise and fall of the cicada is the sound of summer in Illinois.

As you spend time outside, there is a musical quality to the many sounds of nature. When you sit outside, take some time and listen. You might just hear Nature's Nightly Number.

Presidential library, museum acquires law book used by Lincoln as attorney

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum in Springfield recently acquired a law book that Lincoln used as an attorney and considered one of the most important for a young lawyer to master.

The book is the second volume in a three-volume set called "A Treatise on the Law of Evidence" by Simon Greenleaf.

The book will be reunited with the first volume, which the library has owned for decades. The location of the third, if it still exists, is a mystery.

"We learn a little more about Lincoln's career every month, and each discovery raises new questions to explore. When and why did the firm get rid of this book that Lincoln used so often? Did they buy a later edition? Maybe the answers will be in the next book or document that someone donates," said James Cornelius, curator of the presidential library's Lincoln Collection.

The Montana Historical Society donated the book to the Lincoln Presidential Library.

The society received the book in 1927 from a Helena resident who had gotten it from his father, who had bought it years earlier.

"The book does not fit in our collection, so we are very happy that the presidential library is interested in it," said Roberta Gebhardt, library manager of the Montana Historical Society. "We always like to reunite sets if we can."

"It's a pleasure to have these two volumes reunited here at the Lincoln Presidential Library, and we appreciate the Montana Historical Society's generosity," said Nadine O'Leary, acting executive director of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum.

"A Treatise on the Law of Evidence" was an important reference work in Lincoln's mind. In two surviving letters to aspiring young attorneys, he lists it as one of four books they must master.

The book is signed "Lincoln & Herndon" by Lincoln's law partner, William Herndon.

Lincoln and Herndon, partners for 17 years, had more than 120 thick law and statute books in their library.

The firm Lincoln & Herndon eventually became Herndon & Orendorff, which closed in 1909. Many of the firm's law books subsequently were sold.

Today about half of those reside in the Lincoln Presidential Library, and the other half are in the Regenstein Library at the University of Chicago.

In the newly acquired Greenleaf book, Herndon starred or underscored a few passages and added minute index entries.

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum, a division of the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, is dedicated to telling the story of America's 16th president through scholarship and modern technology.

Maybe it was serendipity...and other musings

So. I was out for a walk one evening last week.

Strolled past a house. Door opens.

Out rushes a dog the size of a buffalo. Or, maybe the size of a cute little bunny rabbit. The dog is growling and barking and making sounds one would associate with a predator seeking fresh meat. The dog's eyes are glowing a bright red. Or, maybe the dog didn't make a sound. And its eyes were just getting adjusted to the dark.

Behind the dog is a human. As the dog rushes towards its prey (that would be me), I hear a human voice...

..."Go to the bathroom," the voice says.

I could only hope that the voice was not talking to me...

...moving on to something else...

...call it serendipity. Well, I think that it was serendipity.

You see, serendipity is a word which I don't think I have ever used in a sentence. Actually, it's a word that I just don't use.

The New Oxford American Dictionary on my trusty laptop defines serendipity as "the occurrence and development of events by chance in a happy or beneficial way: a fortunate stroke of serendipity a series of small serendipities."

The dictionary further explained that the origin of the word "serendipity" dates to 1754. But, you already knew that.

The word was "coined by Horace Walpole, suggested by The Three Princes of Serendip, the title of a fairy tale in which the heroes "were always making discoveries, by accidents and sagacity, of things they were not in quest of."

I think serendipity might be the word for a series of fortunate events which unfolded during the evening of Saturday, June 25.

Daughter was visiting from the north for the week-end. We decided to go to a Southern Illinois Miners baseball game at Rent One Park in Marion on the aforementioned Saturday night.

After we arrived at the old ball park (which, by the way, is a wonderful place to watch a game) and parked the car, we headed to the box office to buy our tickets.

Just as we stepped out of the parking lot and onto the sidewalk, a couple of "older" ("older" as in my age) gentlemen approached us and asked if we were going to buy tickets to the game. Yes, we were about purchase tickets.

The two gentlemen explained that they had a couple of extra tickets and wanted to know if we would like them. "How much?" I asked. They said the tickets were free. Such offers raise my "this is too good to be true" antenna, but it turned out the only condition was that we would sitting next to them. Turned out they were good company. Turned out they both were fellow Michiganders, too.

Into every life a little rain must fall. Such was the case when your writer and Daughter went to a Miners minor league baseball game.

The baseball game turned out to be a good one, too. The Miners found themselves down by three runs, twice, but ended up winning 9-7, thanks to a big hit in the eighth inning which sent 3,833 folks (most of them Miners' fans) home happy.

The only thing that put a literal damper on the evening was the rain which started to fall late in the game, but it was no big deal.

All in all, it was a nice way to spend a summer Saturday night in Southern Illinois: spending time with Daughter, meeting some new folks and watching a baseball game.

...speaking of baseball...let's talk a little bit about that team in Chicago...

...you know...the division (gagging sounds from yours truly) leading (more gagging sounds) Chicago Cubs.

Boy, did that hurt.

A fellow traveler on the Journey Through Life who happens to be a Cubs fan visited The Paragraph Factory one day last week. During his visit, he mentioned that he had a bone to pick with yours truly. That is not unusual.

He gave me a good-natured (well, I think it was good-natured) ribbing for not having mentioned anything about the success which the Cubs are having this year.

I suppose part of the problem would be that my computer just could not type the words "success" and "Cubs" in the same sentence. Fortunately, I was able to find an app for that.*

Yes, the Cubs are having a good year. A very good year. My favorite team, that one in St. Louis which is named after a red bird, is not doing so well. Such is life.

As much as it hurts for me to say this, I figure the Cubs are going to have a pretty good season in 2016. Will this season be enough to make Cubs fans forget about Bartman and curses involving billy goats and not having won a World Series since, well, whenever? We shall see.

Oh, one more thing...I think that Horace Walpole, the guy who coined the word "serendipity," played for the Cubs back in 1754, which, I think would have been the last time the Cubs won the World Series. "The Three Princes of Serendip" was a nickname for the Cubs' outfielders.

(*I made that up. There is no such app, as far as I know.)

Batter up, and batter on deck...some of the action at the Miners game we saw.

Page from the Past From the files of The Gazette-Democrat

50 Years Ago, July 7, 1966

Union County, as well as most of the nation, sweltered under temperatures of over 90 degrees for the 14th straight day, with no rainfall. however, from The Gazette-Democrat files of July 17, 1936, the recording was 12 days of over 100 degrees, with Tuesday of that week registering 108 degrees.

A capacity crowd attended the Fourth of July celebration at the Anna City Park, to view the fireworks and to participate in the events of the day, including horse racing, stock car racing and the inevitable coon chase.

Twenty-five years ago Jackson County residents saw the end of the Grand Tower Ferry. August 1, 1966 residents can see the opening of the new Grand Tower Ferry, or so it seems, according to Louis Wills the township road commissioner. The road bed leading to the boat ramp Illinois side was completed last week.

When Wayman Presley returned from a tour of Florida last week, he found that vandals had looted Bald Knob Cross, removing a 200 pound wooden door from its hinges on the front of the cross.

Construction of new facilities for the Illinois Fruit Growers Exchange is under way near Cobden.

Both the Anna and Cobden Markets are shipping tomatoes and cucumbers this week, however, due to the lack of rain in the area, the market is light at present.

The first peaches from Union County are appearing on the fruit and vegetable stands along the highways. Most of them Redhavens. Homegrown tomatoes are also for sale for the first time this season.

Everyone is invited to attend the "Togie" Homecoming and old fashioned box social in the (Saratoga) Village Park, Saturday evening, July 9th.

The Beech Grove School Reunion was held Sunday, June 26, at the State Forest with 70 persons attending. This included teachers, pupils and friends.
